IN RE: NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE PLAYERS' CONCUSSION INJURY LITIGATION

Calvin Woods, et al. v. National Football League, et al.,)
M.D. Florida, C.A. No. 8:12-01620)	MDL No. 2323
Michael J. Pyle, et al. v. The National Football League,) et al., S.D. New York, C.A. No. 1:12-06493)

TRANSFER ORDER

Before the Panel:* Pursuant to Panel Rule 7.1, plaintiffs move to vacate our orders conditionally transferring their actions to MDL No. 2323. Defendants National Football League, Inc. and NFL Properties, LLC (together, the “NFL”) oppose both motions to vacate, and defendants All American Sports Corp. and Riddell, Inc. (together Riddell); Buccaneers Limited Partners; Buffalo Bills, Inc.; Detroit Lions, Inc.; Miami Dolphins, LTD; and Philadelphia Eagles, LLC. oppose the motion to vacate as to the Middle District of Florida Woods action.

The actions comprising MDL No. 2323 involve allegations that the NFL is liable for injuries sustained while plaintiffs were playing professional football, including damages resulting from the permanent long-term effects of concussions. In general, plaintiffs allege that the NFL failed to warn and protect NFL players against the long-term brain injury risks associated with football-related concussions and to regulate the sport so as to minimize the risk of such long-term injuries. See In re: Nat’l Football League Players’ Concussion Injury Litig., 842 F. Supp. 2d 1378 (J.P.M.L. 2012). Many plaintiffs also allege that Riddell is liable in connection with the sale and manufacturing of football helmets. Plaintiffs in these actions argue that their actions are not appropriate for inclusion in MDL No. 2323 because federal subject matter jurisdiction is lacking and transfer would inconvenience plaintiffs. The Woods plaintiffs also argue that their action differs from the MDL actions in that it names certain football teams as defendants, as well as Riddell and the NFL.

After considering all argument of counsel, we find these actions involve common questions of fact with the actions previously transferred to MDL No. 2323, and that transfer will serve the convenience of the parties and witnesses and promote the just and efficient conduct of the litigation. Like the MDL No. 2323 actions, the Woods and Pyle actions involve allegations that defendants are liable for, inter alia, failing to warn and protect players from the long-term risk of concussions and sub-concussive injuries. That the Woods action names certain football teams as defendants does not counsel against transfer, as the Panel has long held that transfer under Section 1407 does not require a complete identity of parties. See In re: Navistar 6.0 L Diesel Engine Prods. Liab. Litig., 777 F.

* Judge Lewis A. Kaplan took no part in the decision of this matter.

Supp. 2d 1347, 1348 (J.P.M.L. 2011). Moreover, the Panel has often held that jurisdictional issues do not present an impediment to transfer, as plaintiffs can present such arguments to the transferee judge. See, e.g., In re: Prudential Ins. Co. of Am. Sales Practices Litig., 170 F. Supp. 2d 1346, 1347-48 (J.P.M.L. 2001). Indeed, the jurisdictional issues presented by plaintiffs' motions to remand are also implicated in the NFL's motion to dismiss in MDL No. 2323. Transfer will allow a single court to efficiently and consistently address these issues.

The Panel has repeatedly held that, while it might inconvenience some parties, transfer of a particular action often is necessary to further the expeditious resolution of the litigation taken as a whole. See, e.g., In re: Crown Life Ins. Premium Litig., 178 F. Supp. 2d 1365, 1366 (J.P.M.L. 2001). The Pyle plaintiffs assert a particular concern about preservation of evidence, but such concerns can be addressed to the transferee court.

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED that pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1407, these actions are transferred to the Eastern District of Pennsylvania and, with the consent of that court, assigned to the Honorable Anita B. Brody for inclusion in the coordinated or consolidated pretrial proceedings.
